

Short-term Contract Opportunity with Cascadia Seaweed

Position: Harvest Crew Member (4 - 6 positions available)

Tentative Dates: April 2023

Description:

This short term contract position is to help the Cascadia Seaweed team complete their seaweed harvest in Barkley Sound in April. The team will be working on the water on harvest skiffs to pull lines of seaweed out of the water and trim the seaweed off into totes. There are usually 3 harvest skiffs working simultaneously with a packer boat moving the harvested crop to Port Alberni.

Requirements:

For this position, the successful candidate will be safety minded, have experience working on the water, be comfortable working long days around heavy equipment, be physically able to labour in all weather conditions, and have their own winter rain gear, warm layers, Personal Floatation Device (PFD), and steel-toe gumboots.

About Cascadia Seaweed:

In partnership with coastal First Nations, Cascadia Seaweed is growing to be the largest producer of ocean-cultivated seaweed in North America. Our BC-based company was founded in 2019 by three local maritime professionals who believe in building a profitable and scalable business that enhances the natural environment, reverses human impact on the oceans, and provides economic opportunity for coastal communities. Seaweed is a climate-positive crop with many end uses that does not require arable land or freshwater to grow. Cascadia is focused on restoring marine ecosystems, delivering products that reduce greenhouse gas emissions, and building a more resilient food system.

To learn more about Cascadia Seaweed, please visit our website and our YouTube channel.

www.cascadiaseaweed.com www.youtube.com/@cascadiaseaweed

How to Apply:

Send an email expressing your interest to

Joel McSorley, Aquaculture Operations Coordinator at Cascadia Seaweed

jmcsorley@cascadiaseaweed.com

Please use H6-A23 as the subject line of the email.